PROFILE

I am an experienced, creative and professional Master of architecture student at the Glasgow School of Art. My objective is to build upon my existing architectural experience while improving the quality and sustainability of architecture overall.

My unique multilingual background makes me fascinated in people and culture, and has driven me to become a very adaptable individual to different contexts and roles and to draw influence from others, while my constant drive for success makes me an extremely efficient and creative designer ready to take on all challenges.

Being multilingual has meant that I think differently, creatively and on a multifaceted level, which has proven to be of high value in a creative and team-oriented profession.
